OVERVIEW

This is the latest edition of Washington Global's weekly newsletter! Updated every Friday, our weekly newsletters serve as a dedicated source to keep our global community well-informed. Our newsletters produce the latest updates, announcements, health and safety advisories, recognition of outstanding individuals, classroom spotlights, and a wealth of engaging content

THE WOLFPACK EXPERIMENTS

Washington Global's sixth graders have been learning about experiments in science class and spent last week learning about quantitative and qualitative data. To practice collecting data, the scholars conducted a mini experiment, where they tested how far a pencil would roll when pushed off a ramp. They worked in groups to observe the pencil rolling three times and collected the quantitative data, or the distance the pencil rolled, and the qualitative data, meaning how the pencil rolled, each time.

THE WOLFPACK DIVES DEEP

This week in High School Prep, students learned about the history of local high schools. Scholars engaged in discussions about the importance of high school education and the impact of quality education.

KIDS RIDE FREE PROGRAM

If your student needs a SmarTrip card to commute to and from school on the Metrobus and/or Metrorail, please reach out to Ms. Diana (dgabriel@washingtonglobal.org) to get your student on the list. Cards are assigned on a first come, first serve basis, within 24 hours of the request. If your student loses their card, please let Ms. Diana or Ms. K know, so the school can issue another card.

Scholars who are signed up for after care may be picked up from school until 6:00 pm and can participate in the school's after school activities.
